Over 120 countries around the world have adopted comprehensive right to information laws or national policies. You can use these laws to demand information from public bodies and others. See if you can use yours!